Residential Construction Lending with Brad Meyer and Team

DESCRIPTION

While once a niche product, construction lending is quickly becoming more of a mainstream and sought-after product solution. Inventory conditions, regulatory requirements, and technology solutions along with other key factors shape the market, allowing many banks and lenders to create profits and long terms benefits within this segment. But, with this evolution, pressure mounts to understand how to effectively create and maintain a profitable and successful residential construction and renovation program, either from the ground up or as an add-on to already existing business.

SPEAKER

Led by Brad Meyer from Trinity Real Estate Solutions, learn the essential elements to building a road map for this type of program.
